Description
Provide a short description of the event and its activities.
The Transnational panel discussion with political representatives was the ninth event in the project HEARD. It was organised and conducted within Work package 9 of the HEARD project in all project countries from all project partners. The Transnational panel discussion with political representatives started with the greetings and introduction to the event. All project partners continued with the presentation of the project consortium and present political representatives, which acted as key participants at the discussion. After the introductions the project partners presented and started a discussion regarding already prepared political recommendations, based on the previous project events and results, from the field of democracy, human rights, and work-life balance of women for future epidemic situations. Speakers presented to the public prepared political recommendations by the project partners, accordingly to the findings of the project, and ensured that both political representatives and the public had a possibility to reflect and debate about the findings, with the primary goal to ensure that political representatives and the public has possibility to engage in meaningful reflection debate, learning from the past and thinking about the future pandemic situation and possible solutions. The events were concluded with an in-depth discussion between the participants, political representatives, and project partners. The topics covered encouraged a lively debate among those present. The participants were particularly involved in sharing their opinion and point of view. All the questions posed and arisen during the panel discussion have been discussed very lively by participants, political representatives and project partners and conclusions were reached. The participants feedback and conclusions were gathered in »the Report of Transnational panel discussion with political representatives.« The Transnational panel was a success in terms of raising awareness of the political recommendations and ensuring that politicians and decision makers at different levels could reflect on prepared political recommendations, while at the same time, the public had an opportunity to reflect on their perception of the pandemic with politicians. This event was one of the key importance events, as project partners had an opportunity to get direct feedback from politicians and public about their findings of the project up to this point in the project.
